Genealogical Memoirs of the Sampson Family in America, from the arrival of the Mayflower in 1620
to the present time Including a Biographical Sketch of Deborah Sampson
the Heroine of the Revolution

compiled by John Adams Vinton

The name is Samson in nearly all the records, down to a late period; which is no doubt the true orthography, derived from the sacred volume. But as the name now almost universally appears with a p, the modern usage is here followed throughout or nearly so.

The destruction of the early records of Duxbury (prior to 1666) by fire and the unsatisfactory manner in which, for the most part, they ~~were~~ have since been kept, renders the task of him who would construct a full and clear Genealogy of any ancient family, of that most respectable town, exceedingly arduous. The compiler of this volume has never found himself beset with more serious difficulties in any undertaking of this nature. Some questions of descent he has been compelled to give up in despair.

The ensuing Memoir is derived from the following sources: Personal researches in the Old Colony Records and the Probate Office at Plymouth / Winsor's History of Duxbury / a Genealogical Memoir in MS. of the Sampson Family in ~~Duxbury~~ Plympton, compiled in 1832, by Deacon Lewis Bradford, town clerk of Plympton w/ additions by another hand / researches in the records of Duxbury, Plymouth, Pembroke, Middleborough, Boston, Beverly, and other towns, made by the compiler, or by others at his request / a MS. of Mr. Thomas Bradford Drew of Plymouth / communications made to the compiler by Mr. Joseph Allen Sampson of Duxbury, Mr. Alfred Wood of Middleborough, Miss Marcia A. Thomas of Marshfield, and many others. The Mass. Archives have also been examined by the compiler. The compiler is not ~~the~~ descended from the Sampson Family, or in any way connected with it, except by a pleasant acquaintance w/ some of its members

He was asked to do so by Mr. Edwin H. Sampson of Boston who had seen a copy of Mr. Vinton's "Vinton Memorial" which he had compiled about 2 years previous. Having at that time commenced the Giles Memorial the compiler cheerfully accepted the task, supposing however, that the Sampson Genealogy would not extend beyond thirty-two pages. The work rapidly grew to its present dimensions.

It is now issued in two forms: 1. as a constituent part of the Giles Memorial; 2. as a separate volume. Of the latter, only one hundred copies are printed.

Only one number belongs to an individual. A small figure after a name denotes the generation to which the individual belongs:

a — means aged & signifies that such a year of the person's life has been completed.

ae — means "in the year of one's life" [aetatis] and signifies that the year of his life has not been completed.

b. born
bap. baptized
dau. daughter
m. married
unm. unmarried
d. died

? indicates uncertainty in what immediately precedes,

H.C. 1706, means the person grad at Harvard College in that year.

Civil or legal year: began on the 25th of March. Feb was the 12th month of the year.

Historical year: begins with the 1st day of Jan. and Dec. is the 12th month.

To change Old Style into New — add 10 days to dates bet 1600 & 1700; or add 11 days to dates between 1700 & Sept 3, 1752 at which date the new style was inaugurated by Act of Parliament and Sept 3, 1752 became the 14th of September and the year made to begin in January.

"Henry¹ Samson came on Mayflower 1620, a member of the family of his uncle Edward¹ Tilley, and was too young to sign the immortal compact of Nov. 11, in the cabin of that vessel, while at anchor in the harbor of P'town. He was, however, enumerated in the assignment of land, 1623, and in the division of cattle, 1627 & was admitted a freeman of P'lym. Col. in 1637.

He early removed to Duxbury - prob. w/ the 1st settlers of that town and m. ~~Ann~~ Anne Plummer 6 Feb. 1635-6.

He was 1 of the original grantees of Bridgewater, 1645, but did not remove there. He was constable of Duxbury 1661. He d. 24 Dec. 1684. In his will bearing date of the same day he mentions NO wife, but to his sons Stephen, John & James, gives a tract of land he had purchased in Dartmouth; to each of them a third part to his son Caleb he gives one shilling - He also gives one shilling each to dau. Elizabeth, wife of Robert Sproat; to dau. Hannah, wife of Josiah Holmes; to his dau. -- [name not given] "now wife of John Hammond;" to dau. Mary, wife of John Summers; to dau. Dorcas, wife of Thomas Boney.

The will was exhibited before the [General] Court of Plymouth, March 5, 1684/5 & may be found in the Old Colony Records, Wills, Vol. 4. p. 94. The will thus indicates that the property of the testator, all but the Dartmouth purchase, had already been distributed among the heirs.

11. Abraham^1 Sampson supposed to have been a brother of Henry^1 Samson but came to N.E. some time after Henry prob. in 1629 or 30 & settled at Duxbury. On list in Duxbury "able to bear arms" in 1643. One of the 54 original grantees of Bridgewater, 1645, all of whom then resided in *Duxbury. Most of them incl. Abraham Sampson did not remove. He was living in 1686; after which there is no record of him.

* Bridgewater was a part of Duxbury till 1656.

His wife, whose baptismal name does not appear, was a dau. of Samuel Nash, the Lieut. of the Duxbury Company. ~~The~~ Lieut. Nash was frequently engaged in the military expeditions of the Colony, and was an officer in nearly all of them. He was sheriff or chief marshal of the colony from 1652 through a period of more than 20 years.

Winsor says that Abraham had a second wife but does not give her name. There is no will of Abraham^1 Sampson or settlement of his estate on record, as the records of Duxbury prior to 1666 were destroyed by fire, we are unable to make out a full list of his children. Names of 4 sons, who came to maturity, & had families. If there were daughters or other sons their memory has perished.

(76.) Peleg^3 Sampson (son of Isaac^2, Abraham^1)
b. Plympton 12 Nov. 1700; m. Mary Ring
It appears from the Pembroke Records that he was of Pembroke in 1724 and 1726. + that his ch. Mary + Peleg were born there. From the Probate Records we learn that in 1734 he was of Plympton, a "Nailer", at wh. date he + his brothers + sister released to their brother Ephraim certain lands in Plympton. Plym. Prob. 7: pp. 67-68. In 1736 he must have been of Kingston because his son renowned Capt. Simeon Samson was b. there. He owned Ironworks in Middleborough which were suppressed by the royal Government and as his dau. Priscilla was bap. in the First Church in that town in 1738-9 he doubtless lived there at that time. He was a private in a company commanded by Capt. (later General) John Winslow in the Expedition against the Spanish West Indies under Admiral Vernon, which cost the lives of so many New England men, and Peleg fell a victim to disease 27 April 1741

He lived in Plympton in the house which his father had occupied. A soldier in the "Old French War," 1756, etc. The story goes that he was once taken by the Indians, who tied him to a tree and amused themselves with throwing hatchets on each side of their prisoner to see how near they could throw, [illegible]
He was also a Rev. soldier; his name appears in the Mass. archives as one of the "Eight months' men," who served from the beginning of May to the end of Dec. 1775. At the end of that period he re-enlisted, and was slain in the battle of Haerlem, in the upper part of the island of New York, 16 Sept. 1776, "a. 49 years, 4 mos. 8 days by new style."

53a. Deborah^5 Sampson

b. Plympton 17 Dec 1760 dau of Jonathan^4 & Deborah (Bradford) Sampson of Plympton she died at her home in Sharon 27 April 1827, ae 67
m. 1784 Benjamin Gannett of Sharon an industrious young farmer.

They had an only son Capt. Earl B. Gannett & 2 daughters. Her story is one of the most remarkable on record. At the age of 5 yrs. she was, by the pressure of want upon the family, separated from her mother — her father being absent at sea, or having perished by shipwreck. After spending a few yrs. with a maiden lady of the name of Fuller, and also with a Mrs. Thacher, she was placed under the care of Deacon Jeremiah Thomas in Middleborough in whose family she remained from the age of 10 to that of 20 years.

In April 1781, she left home secretly in the night in male attire; went through Taunton, Rochester & New Bedford where she thought to make an engagement w/ the capt. of a privateer but abandoned the plan when informed of his bad treatment of his men. She then visited Wrentham, Dedham & other towns & at Bellingham enlisted as a Continental soldier for the town of Uxbridge under the assumed name of Robert Shurtliffe. Abt. the end of the month she was mustered into service at Worcester & in the company of a large number of new recruits, marched to join the army at West Point. In the month of June she was sent w/ a part of her co. on a reconnoissance to Haerlem & the White Plains. They had a skirmish w/ a party of the enemy, consisting chiefly of tories whom they compelled to retire. Though the shock of battle was unexpected & furious, and the man next to her was shot dead at the 2nd discharge, she says she suffered less from fear, than from fatigue, thirst & the heat of the day.

Soon after this she was transferred, with most of her company, to Col. Henry Jackson's reg. of light infantry. The American forces were now, early in June, joined by the French army from Newport. After a series of manoeuvres made to deceive the enemy into a belief that an attack on New York was intended, the whole allied army, under Washington, about the 20th of August took up its line of march for the Chesapeake. In the siege & capture of Yorktown, which soon followed, our heroine gives an animated description. In the hardships, as well as glories, of this siege she had a personal share. She labored unwilling to be outdone by sturdy, robust men, in the trenches, and was often exposed to great danger from the enemy's fire. Once she distinctly felt the wind of a cannon ball which passed over her head and killed 4 men just behind her. On the night of the 7th of October she was 1 in a large detachment under Gen. Lincoln who were ordered to open trenches within a mile of the enemy's lines. On the following night fire was opened on the enemy from the whole extent of the allied lines. Carnage & death now became familiar. 2 large [illegible] redoubts, held by the enemy, 300 yds in advance of their lines was severely raking their forces with grapeshot. It was necessary to attack these 2 redoubts. The attack on one was entrusted to a body of French troops under Baron de Viomenil; the other to a detachment of American infantry under the Marquis de la Fayette. Our heroine was engaged in this perilous affair. The hostile intrenchments were carried on the 15th at the point of the bayonet. 3 days later Cornwallis signed articles for the surrender of his whole army; which were carried into effect on the 19th. After the surrender, the army returned by the same route it had pursued in its progress to Va., & went into winter quarters on the banks of the Hudson.

In June, 1782, our heroine, w/abt. 20 others, volunteered on an expedition against a party of tories, who were committing outrages on the inhabitants east of the Hudson. After a sharp skirmish, they put the tories to flight. But the heroine recd. 2 wounds, one in the left temple; the other (from a pistol ball) in the thigh, near the groin. She was carried to the hospital, & the adventure came near discovering her sex. By resolutely concealing the second wound and extracting the ball herself, she escaped detection.

Peace was proclaimed in the army April 19, 1783. The troops, however were not disbanded till the autumn following. Having occasion to visit Philadelphia during the summer she was seized by a malignant fever, then raging in that city, which proved fatal to multitudes. She was carried to the hospital & narrowly escaped with life. At one time the attendants supposed her to be dead, & she heard some [illegible] (who were near) disputing about some part of her clothing which they expected to have. She made it known that she was still alive & sank again into a state resembling death. The surgeon Dr. Binney happened to enter the hospital & was made acquainted w/ the fact. Thrusting his hand into her bosom, to ascertain if there was motion at the heart he found a compress over her breast, the removal of which the [illegible] that the [illegible] was a woman. This secret she imparted to no one, to [illegible] the history of the attachment. As soon as she was able to ride, she was taken to Dr. Binney's house and [illegible] there w/ the greatest care. On the departure of [illegible] for the purpose of being discharged Dr. Binney gave her a letter for Gen. Patterson, disclosing the fact of her sex & the manner in which it was discovered. The Gen. was greatly astonished but treated her kindly. She had been well known to him as a brave soldier & had during part of her 3d year acted as his aide-de-camp & had lived in his family during the illness of Major Haskell who had served him in that capacity. She recd. an honorable discharge Oct. 23, 1783 & went among her relatives in Mass. in Nov. 1783. She did not immediately [illegible] but at length resumed feminine apparel & employments.

dau. of John Shaw of Middleborough

Led a seafaring life - his 1st voyage was to Charlotte, S. Carolina + was there at the time of the great fire in 1796 which consumed nearly 400 bldgs. In 1800 he sailed for England. The vessel was captured by a French cruiser in the English Channel + the crew carried into the port of Brest. From there he was taken up through the country under an escort of gens d'armes; and being confined in prison every every night, he saw the inside of 13 diff. prisons. On arr. at Nantes the American Consul Peter F. Dubree procured his release. In 1802 + 1803 he went as mate of the brig Apollo and visited many of our Southern ports and of the West India Islands.

569. George Washington^5 Samson (cont'd from page 44) (II

After experiencing many of the vicissitudes of a sea-going life, he retired to the farm in Plympton left to him by his father. In 1812 he removed to Homer, Cortland Co., N.Y., of which town he was an early settler, and an innkeeper many years; opening & occupying several different hotels within the county. The last was "Samson's Temperance House," in the village of Homer. In 1852, he sold it to his son Isaac M. Samson, & withdrew from active business. He had an extensive reputation as a good landlord, entertaining his guests with his good-humored conversation, and even with his poetic productions. As a specimen of the latter — "The Fountain's Invitation" which was posted over the watering-trough, supplied from a spring on a neighboring hill.

"Come, traveller, slake thy parching thirst,
And drive away dull care;
Thou need'st not broach thy little purse,
For I am free as air.

"My source is on the mountain side,
My course is to the sea;
Then drink till thou art satisfied,
Yea, drink! for I am FREE."

He was for more than 20 yrs. an active & efficient supporter of the cause of Temperance. Such was the esteem in which he was held by the Temperance Community that the first lodge of Good Templars organized in Homer, was called the Samson Lodge of Good Templars.

Egbert (d. 839) king of the West Saxons, as a young man was banished from England and took refuge at the court of Charlemagne. In 1802 he returned and was accepted as the King of Wessex. About 824 he began a career of conquest, gaining control over Mercia, East Anglia, and Kent; while Northumbria in 829 and No. Wales in 831 accepted him as overlord. Egbert is often called the first king of all England, but this is an anachronism as there was no concept of a unified England in his time.

John - b. 1592
Jane Knyvet-b. 1596

A pedigree chart of Sares family shows Richard b. Amsterdam 1613. Could this be a son of Richard b. '59?

The Heralds Visitation of Essex, for 1612, says that "George Sayer of Col. in com. Essex, gentle, sonne & heire," and "John Sayer of Col. 2d sonne," were the sons of " . . . Sayer of Col. in Ess. Gentleman."

That John was a second son, is confirmed by his brass in St. Peter's Ch. Col., whereon his coat of arms is differenced by a crescent, the distinguishing heraldic mark of a second son.

1. George - "Notices of the Sears Family" (p.4) says "In 1577, George Seares of Colchester died in possession of 'The Abbots' in Stanway, under trust for Richard Sayer * in Holland;" -- and confuses it with Bourchier Hall, or Little Fordham, an entirely different estate in Aldham, a neighboring parish.
George Sayer bought Bourchier Hall, paying ingress fine in 1574, and d. 1577.

* who had died 37 yrs. previous (1540). The words "under trust, etc." are undoubtedly an interpolation.

d. "Goody Sares was bur. Mar. 19, 1678/9" (g.s.-OBG, Yarm.)

He is said to have been s. of John Bourchier Sayer & his wife Marie Lamoral, dau.of Philip? Lamoral von Egmond. He joined the Scrooby company at Leyden. On death of his fa. he came into possession of a large property. Ø with last of Scrooby congregation from Leyden, landing at Plymouth 8 May 1630. His name first found on records of Plymouth Colony in tax list of 25 Mar. 1633 where he was 1 of 44 (in a list of 86) assessed 9s. in corn at 6s. per bu. He soon crossed over to Marblehead, in Mass. Colony, and was taxed as a resident of that place, in the rate-list for January 1, 1637/8 for Salem, and on October 14, 1638, was granted four acres of land "where he had formerly planted". This would seem to indicate that he had then some family. His reasons for moving can only be conjectured. It may be that he wished to be nr. friends, former townspeople, or perhaps relatives. Anthony Thacher, whom Richard calls "brother" in his will, was then living in Marblehead, Mass. The early settlers of Marblehead were many of them from the channel islands, Guernsey & Jersey, and in these places the family of Sarres has been est. for sev. centuries, and is still (1890) rep. in Guernsey under the names of Sarres and Serres. Early in the year 1639, a party under the leadership of Anthony Thacher crossed over to Cape Cod and settled upon a tract of land called by the Indians Mattakeese, to which they gave the name of Yarmouth. With them went Richard Sares, accom. prob. by his wife and infant son, Paul. He took up residence on Quivet Neck, bet. Quivet & Sesuit creeks, where in Sept. of the same year their dau. Deborah was b. perh. the 2nd white child and first girl born there. (Zachary Rider being supposedly the 1st boy) In 1643, the name of Richard Seeres appears in the list of "inhabitants of Yarmouth, between the ages of 16 and 60, liable to bear arms." June 3, 1652, Richard Seeres was "propounded to take up Freedom," and Richard Sares "took oath of Fidellyte at Plimouth," June 7, 1653. Chosen Grand Juryman, June 7, 1652; Constable, June 6, 1660; & Representative to the General Court at Plymouth, June 3, 1662. His will dated 10. 3mo. (May) 1667, and the codicil thereto, dated ten years later, viz., 3 Feb., 1676, are both signed by his mark (apparently the letters R.S., one over the other). In 1664 Richard Sares "husbandman" purchased a tract of land at Sesuit, from Allis Bradford, widow of Gov. Wm. Bradford, for the sum of £20.

Sears' Folly may help rejuvenate grand old flag of Dennis

By BILL SMITH
Sunday Editor

DENNIS — The Dennis Bicentennial Commission is commemorating a salt works which was once considered a joke to salvage a flag that has an uncertain past — but a potentially enormous historic interest.

Th flag, which until this week hung in the barn gehind the Jehrico House Museum in West Dennis, has 13 stars, indicating that it was made between 1777 when the design was adopted, and 1795, the year Vermont and Kentucky entered the Union, raising the number to 15.

Besides its age, which has been tentatively set by a team of experts from Boston as at least 180 years, it is of special interest because of its awesome size of 10 by 15 feet — larger than all but a few wall areas in town where it could be safely displayed.

The gigantic flag, donated to the Dennis Historical Society in 1970 by the Bernard O'Neil family of West Dennis, is made entirely of linen and was sewn together by hand. Little is know of its history except that it had been a family heirloom. But there is plenty of speculation about its purpose.

For instance, could a flag that size have been flown for any length of time without shredding? If not, was it made specifically to hang in a large public building? If so, which building — and where? A state capitol?

A solid clue lies in the arrangement of the stars — four in the top row, five in the second, and four in the third —indicating it was a (the?) "Ft. Independence" flag of Boston. If so, it was made in 1781.

Assuming it is an original, how many other 13-star flags, especially this size, could have survived? There is a chance, said William Jeremiah Burke, who is also researching its past, that it's the largest such flag in existence. Burke is a member of the town's historical society and also the bicentennial commission.

"It would certainly be one of the biggest," he said. "There's no doubt about that."

In an effort to get behind the mystery surrounding the flag, the commission and the historical society plan to turn to the Smithsonian Institution for help, as well as using knowledgeable flag types from Boston. In the meantime, the flag, worth "well above" $5,000 in its present condition, according to one expert, has been removed from the barn and, as of this weekend, is in storage at the Dennis police station.

Although it is in remarkably good shape for its age, it is fragile and in need of repair and restoration; an expensive undertaking.

Ann Treat Reynolds, chairman of the town's bicentennial commission, said the project will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000 and will include cleaning the fabric, mending a number of small holes, mounting it on a suitable backing, and encasing it in a protective frame with a face either of glass or Plexiglas.

To pay for the work, which will be done by professionals in Boston in consultation with the Museum of Fine Arts, the town's bicentennial commission has drawn $500 from its $12,000 appropriation. This will be matched by another $500 from the state commission through its grant program.

And, to repay the town, the bicentennial commission is selling a decorative tile depicting an early 1800s salt works, the direct descendant of the one John Sears, an imaginative sea captain, constructed there in 1776.

At first derisively dubbed "Sears Folly" because it was like the elephant that gave birth to a mouse, "Sleepy John" Sears' prototype became the sire of the Cape's coastal salt industry that produced profitably until the late 1800s when inland salt deposits, with their cheaper yield, were developed.

Sears' "Folly", which he build in East Dennis during the British blockade, was the country's first salt works using solar evaporation of sea water. It consisted of a wooden vat 100 feet long and 10 feet wide and was fed seawater by a windmill. Its first year's production amounted to a tiny eight bushels, amusing his neighbors, who gave it its shortsighted nickname.

In 1777, however, "Sleepy John" upped his production to about 30 busbels. Tbe word of his success spread, and so did the Cape's salt industry. Soon, practically every town was turning seawater into pure white table salt, whicb was exported as well as used locally.

The success of the salt industry that John Sears fathered, less by folly than ingenuity, lasted a little more and added a fair piece of change to the Cape's agricultural and maritime economies. Although it bas been almost another century since their decline, the salt works remain lodged in the Cape's geographic memory — seven towns (Barnstable, Bourne, Chatham, Dennis, Eastham, Famouuth and Yarmouth), have Saltworks Lanes, marking the sites of some of the "Folly's" offspring.

So profitable did the sea salt business become that at its peak, shortly before the Covil War, hundreds of salt works were in production on tbe Cape, representing a $2 million industry creating 360,000 bushels annually. Dennis alone had 85 such plants dotting its shores.

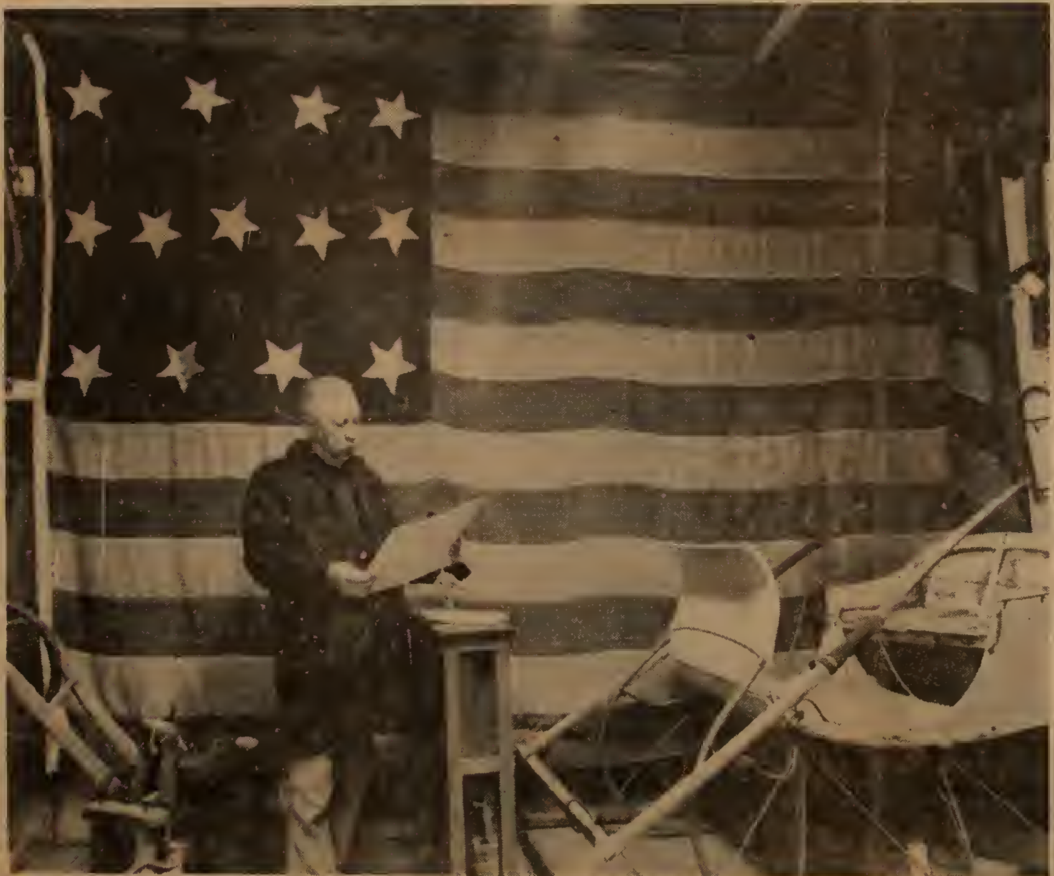
The bicentennial commission's commemorative tile, which measures 6x6 inches, shows a salt works, but it isn't Sleepy John's. His exists today only as a verbal description. The picture on the tile is the reproduction of a steel plate engraving from a book entitled "Historical Collections — History and Antiquities of Every Town in Massachusetts," by Jobn Warner Barber, published in 1839.

The engraving is included in tbe section on Dennis (tbe town separated from Yarmouth and was incorporated in 1793), where author Barber credits Sears with the first solar-powered salt works Prior to 1776, Barber notes, salt works had been heated by wood fire, which combined the disadvantages of small production with great expense. Sears eliminated the expense.

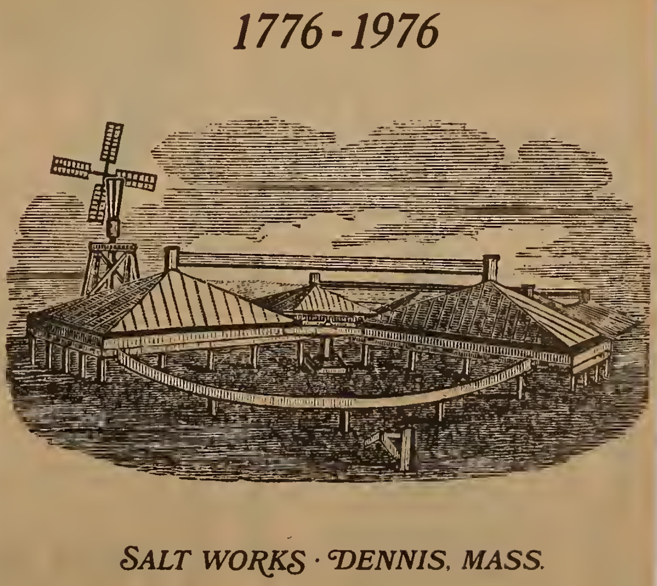
The picture reproduced on the tile shows what to Barber was a modern salt works, far larger and more complicated than Sears' predecessor, with five evaporation vats and a windmill in the background Barber quotes a Mr Kelly, who comments on the simplicity of the salt works process:

> "To shelter the vats from the dews and rains each is furnished with a hipped roof, large enough to cover it entirely. The roofs of two vats are connected by a beam turning upon an upright post, set firmly in the ground. and are moved easily on this pivot by a child of fourteen, or even twelve years. To cover and uncover they is all the ordinary labor."

The commemorative tiles, inscribed "Salt Works, Dennis, Mass." and 1776-1976, were produced by Screencraft Products, Inc., of West Yarmouth. They are Englisb white tiles, have a portuguese cork backing and an eyelet for wall hanging. The commission had 1,000 made at a cost of $1.50 apiece. They'll go on sale for the first time at the special town meeting Feb. 13, at a cost of $3.



William Jeremiab Burke of Dennis stands in front of the huge heirloom flag which the Dennis Historical Society is working to restore. Burke is belping to research the flag's origins and thinks it may be the largest 13-star flag in existence. (Staff Pboto by Bill Smith)



To pay for the restoration of the flag, the Dennis Historical Society is selling tiles depicting an old-time saltworks, similar to the one John Sears built in Dennis in 1776. Tiles will be on sale at the Dennis special town meeting on Feb. 13.

since the start in 1967, they have put on 58 plays and figure they've played to an audience of close to half a million.

They've appeared in New York City and state, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and as far afield as Cranston, R.I.

Those involved in the project would like to see it become the prototype for use in correctional facilities in other cities and states. And they'd like to see citizens concerned with rehabilitation giving strong backing.

"I never will feel that the theater is the panacea," said Akila Couloumbis, an actor and co-director of the productions. "It is just one aspect of what should be done.

"We find the less freedom they have, the more their need to create.

"I'll never forget the first time we ever went into a prison. It was on Riker's Island a New York City facility and we found only one man who'd ever seen a play."

Currently, a nucleus of three is touring prisons with two one act plays and in six weeks will have given 45 performances to an estimated 10,000.

institutions you don't usually have elaborate facilities. The group is self contained. It can even draw the curtain if there is one."

Sharing co-direction is Beverly Rich, a Pittsburgh native who came to New York on a scholarship to the Neighborhood Playhouse and has done several summer stock tours.

Miss Rich in private life is the wife of Dudley Morris, who was on the staff of former Mayor John Lindsay and is on the board of directors of Theater for the Forgotten. The couple has one small child, another on the way.

Miss Rich's specialty is developing dramatic programs for juveniles and first offenders — preventive crime theater.

Couloumbis, a veteran of the Air Force and Korean duty, is married to an artist, they have two small children, and he drives a cab at night to help support the family.

Theater for the Forgotten itself is underwritten by the New York State Council on Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts and state and city agencies involved in gone into professional jobs on stage and in television series and television commercials.

The group clears its appearance with wardens or other officials and Couloumbis said, "Maybe they screen out some of the hardened criminals. But our only criterion is, 'Do you have time for rehearsals and performance?' "

"I'll tell you," said Miss Rich, "You're playing to an audience where you have to pull out all the stops.

"We learned that when a play which has proved a success suddenly bombs, it's because something has happened in that particular group. Maybe they didn't get a visit. Or someone's parole was denied."

1667.

The last Will and Testament of Richard Sares, of Yarmouth, late deceased, as followeth;—

In the name of God, Amen. I, Richard Sares of Yarmouth, in the Colony of New Plymouth, in New England, do this 10th day of the third month, Anno Dom. 1667, make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following:—

First,—I give and surrender up my soul to God that gave it, and my body to the earth, from whence it was, in comely and decent manner to be buried, &c.; and all my lands and goods as God hath given me, I give and bequeath as followeth:

First.—I give and bequeath, and my Will is, that Silas Sares, my younger son, shall have all my land, that is, all the upland upon the neck where his house stands in which he now dwells, thus bonded and lying between the cart pathway as runs through the swamp into the said neck unto the land of Peter Werden, and so all along by the lands of the said Peter Werden unto the meadows as are betwixt the said upland and the sea, and so as it is surrounded by the meadows unto the aforesaid cartpath as runs through the swamp aforesaid, after mine and my wifes decease.

To him, the said Sylas Sares, to him, and his heirs and assigns forever, (provided, and my will is, that whereas my son-in-law Zachery Padduck is possessed of, and now lives in an house that is his own proper right within the aforesaid tract of land, that he the said Zachery shall have and enjoy two acres of the aforesaid lands about his said house for and during the life of Deborah, his now wife; together with all ways, easements, and emoluments, to the same appertaining, without any molestation, and eviction or denial of him the said Silas, his heirs or assigns:) And my will is, and I do hereby give unto the said Silas Sares, all that tract of meadow land, as is, and lyeth between the aforesaid neck of upland, and the river, commonly called and known by the name of Sasnett harbor, river bound: also thus from the Great Pine tree as bounds the meadows between the meadows of the aforesaid Peter Werden, and my meadows, unto a knoll of upland called the Island, towards the said harbour's mouth, to the said Sylas and his heirs and assigns forever, after mine and my wifes decease.

Further,—I do give and bequeath to my son Sylas, after mine and my wifes decease, as aforesaid, one half moiety of all that my land called Robins, as is unfenced.

I mean only one half moiety, and part of the upland.

To him the said Sylas, his heirs and assigns forever.

And my Will is, and I do give and bequeath unto my elder son Paul Sares, all the rest and remain of my lands, whatsoever, and every part and parcel of them whatsoever, after mine and my wifes decease, both upland and meadow lands, which I have not in this my last Will, disposed of.

To him, the said Paul Sares, his heirs and assigns forever.

And my Will is, and I do give unto Dorethy my wife, all my lands whatsoever to be at her dispose during her natural life, and I do give unto her all my other goods and cattle whatsoever during her life, and at or before her death, to give and bequeath them amongst my children, at her pleasure, who also I do make sole executrix of this my last Will and testament: and do intreat my brother Thacher, with his two sons as friends in trust, to see this my last will performed:

Furthermore my Will is, that whereas I have bequeathed to my two sons Paul and Silas all that tract of upland called Robins, as is unfenced, by an equal proportion between them, my Will is, I say, that my son-in-law Zachery Padduck shall have two acres of the said upland before it be divided as aforesaid during his said wifes life: and after the decease of his said now wife, my will is, and I do give unto Ichabod Padduck, the said two acres of Robins, and also the aforesaid two acres of land adjoining to the house of his father, Zachery Padduck during his natural life.

In witness whereof, I have to this my last Will and Testament set my hand.

In the presence of
ANTHONY FREY

The marke of
RICHARD (RS) SARES.

Anthony Frey testifieth to the former part of this Will that he saw Richard Sares sign it as his Last Will and Testament, this second day of March, 1676.

Before me, JOHN FREEMAN, Assistant.

Be it known to all to whom these presents shall come, that I, Richard Sares of Yarmouth, in the Colony of New Plymouth, as in this my will before mentioned, being now weak in body, but of perfect sense and memory, do by these presents ratify and confirm my Will, as it has been made on the other side, bearing date the 10th of the third month 1667.

And I do add hereto as followeth, that at my wifes decease my eldest son Paul Sares shall have and enjoy to his own proper use, the house which I now live in, and my bed and the bedding thereto belonging, and my clothing, and the cattle that shall be left at my wifes decease, and also my warming pan, and the earthen pott with the cover that belongs to it, and the iron pot and the table: and in witness hereof I have hereunto set my hand and seale, this third day of February Anno Dom. 1675.76.

In the presence of
JOHN THACHER
JUDAH THACHER

The mark of (RS) RICHARD SARES.

I, John Thacher do testify, that myself and my brother did set our hands as Witnesses to this Will, as being his last Will and Testament, and when my Uncle signed this Appendix to the Will, he delivered the Will to me, and desired me to new draw the whole Will, and to leave out of the new draft, the legacy of land that is given to Ichabod Paddock, for saith he, I have anseized it in another way, but if I die before you have done it, then it must go as it is; and trouble took me off so that I did not redraw the will.

I having thus explained myself, do testify that this Will is the last Will and Testament of my Uncle Sares, so far as I know.

This fift of March 1676.

Mr. John Thacher attested to this Will before me, JOHN FREEMAN, Assistant.

One thing I noticed in READFIELD records — an OTIS SMITH m. 6 Sept. 1814, SARAH WADE. Wonder if that's where CHARLES OTIS SMITH got his middle name. Don't see that name very often in all my research so it struck me as a likely possibility.

Dear Mrs. Haddin, -- Are you the "right" person? Librarian of th Cape Cod Genealogical Society? Because I am encountering a "problem" that possibly some other member can help me with. Have any members indicated descent from Ralph Smith of Hingham and Eastham, Mass.? -- Some of his descendants went to Nova Scotia, and possibly may be the line that includes Capt. Obadiah Smith whose dau. Thankful Smith m. Jonathan Baker, they in turn being the parents of Caroline Baker, the 2nd wife of James Wellesley Wyman (my mother-in-law's grandparents). Anyway, I hope to learn more about Capt. Obadiah Smith whose dau. Thankful was born about 1798, being aged 85 yrs. 8 mos. when she d. in March of 1884 ... she is buried in Beverly, Mass. But she was most definitely a Nova Scotia-type of gal.

It is very possible that others (like me) have not contributed to you a listing of names being searched. I sent in my "A" names a long time ago, and requested information as to whether it was an acceptable format (before you were librarian). I've never heard a word ... and have hesitated to do more, if not done correctly.

Please note my new address. Sincerely,

Hudson Center Cem.

The Snows' Story

THE FIRST HUNDRED YEARS

Text by James Morse

In celebration of our 100th Anniversary, we would like you to join us on a retrospect of Snow's in Orleans from its beginnings around 1880 to the present. Our tale is set on Cape Cod; the characters comprise twelve generations of the Snow family since 1620. Join us each month this year for another chapter, published in The Cape Codder.

Nicholas Snow and Constance (Hopkins) Snow, house-holders of Plymouth, had begun a family there and advanced their fortunes as far as they could in a closely-knit community centered upon the church. They were members of a second generation of Pilgrims. Responding to a natural urge to explore, they looked farther afield for a new homestead.

In 1640, Governor Bradford seriously considered abandoning Plymouth in favor of a "Promised Land" to the east — a region saved for development by the old colony in case of future need. He dispatched a party of explorers to Nauset, a territory inhabited by Indians which occupied a large section of outer Cape Cod, to consider it for resettlement by the entire population of Plymouth.

Among the investigators was Nicholas Snow, who by this time had become a trusted member of the establishment at Plymouth, and an eager exponent of expansion. This committee returned with favorable reports of the land and the environment at Nauset, but also advised that it was not suitable to support the entire band. It would, however, be sufficient for some settlers. After much discussion, the General Court at Plymouth gave the land and its blessing for the settlement there of certain families.

Sylvanus and Olive (Linnell) Snow, early residents of "Happy Hollow" in Tonset — near Champlain Road on Snow Shore.

It has quite recently been determined how the land was divided among the original purchasers of Nauset.

At right angles to a line drawn between the eastern bound of (old) Yarmouth and Race Point in Provincetown, seven equal parcels were marked off and granted to owners named: Cook, Smalley, Higgins, Bangs, Prence and Snow. The description of the entire area, including the seven parcels, reads as follows:

Doane omitted

> "The court doth grant to the church at New Plymouth, or those who go to dwell at Nauset, all the tract of land lying between sea and sea, from the purchasers' bounds at Namskaket to the herring brook ~~at~~ Billingsgate, with said herring brook, and all the meadows on both sides of said brook, with the great Bass pond there, and all the meadows and islands lying within said tract."

The area was to become Eastham, one of the four original towns on Cape Cod. It covered an area roughly fifteen miles long across the Cape from Rock Harbor and Pochet on the south to a line demarking Billingsgate in what is now Wellfleet. Eastham's history, like Plymouth's before it, featured subdivision, and the town is now far smaller than its original limits. North portions and the south parish separated over the years and new towns emerged: Wellfleet and Orleans.

The Lt. Prence Snow House on Canal Road in Orleans is the oldest domestic structure in town.

Nicholas Snow's grant was the southermost, and extended from Bay to Ocean across what is now the center of Orleans. The Snow grant included a good portion of Town Cove and most of the land now called Tonset, Rock Harbor and part of Pochet — desirable real estate indeed.

It is logical to suppose that Nicholas Snow built the first "house" in Orleans, although the original structure would have been rudimentary. The first order of business in the new location was to clear land, erect some sort of shelter (while making plans and gathering materials for a real house) and obtaining enough to eat. By force of circumstances these first-comers were agriculturalists.

Nature had provided the original settlers, the Nauset Indians, with gentle temperatures, plenty of fuel in the high forests which then covered the Cape, and a fertile layer of topsoil covering the plains of Nauset. However, this top layer was not to last long after the English settlers cut off the trees. It was replaced by drifting sand, inhospitable to substantial agriculture.

Title to the land was an important distinction among the early settlers. No one unable or unwilling to shoulder some responsibility for the burden of debt of the entire community was deemed worthy of owning it. Whether American real estate has ever been legitimately "owned" by pilgrims, colonists from over the sea, or anybody except the Indians is a moot point. Nicholas Snow's claim was as legitimate as any. Since his immediate family was large and his descendants' families have also been large, the original grant has been parcelled out, sold and resold many times over, and Orleans is now "owned" by veritable newcomers, except for land purchased by Harry Snow and others of that name over the years, which accounts for a number of homesites remaining in Snow hands along Town Cove and elsewhere in town. Nicholas Snow as undoubtedly one of the earliest, if not the first settler in Orleans.

Having gotten used to owning and possing on land to subsequent gnerations, Nicholas's son Stephen and grandson Ebenezer must have felt threated in 1686. In that year, Edmond Andros, representative of the crown, replaced then Governor Thomas Hinckley as administrator and tax collector. Property ownership was called into question, severe taxation of the English colonials was begun, and the entire economic future of the region was jeopardized. Settlers grown accustomed to thinking for themselves and governing as if independent were suddenly reminded in the harshest manner that they were, after all, colonial subjects of a distant English king. Time enough later for the nurturing of commerce; Nicholas, Stephen and Ebenezer were preoccupied with getting enough crops out of the spare land, providing for their growing families and coping with self-government.

Consider the events in history which affected generations of Snows — along with all the other Cape Codders. Ebenezer's son Thomas, who married Abigail Doane on January 27th, 1731; their son Elnathan who married Phebe Sparrow in 1755; their son Aaron who married Abigail Higgins in 1787 and their son Sylvanus who married Olive Linnell around 1820, all lived through exciting times on old Cape Cod.

Woolgathering

by Marcia J. Monbleau

Dear Summer friend,

Your favorite parking space at the beach is available today. I thought about you when I drove by, and I remembered us hopping from car shadow to car shadow to avoid burning our feet.

There's two feet of snow there now. Do you have trouble imagining that? Have you ever been here when it wasn't sun, and ice cream, and gin and tonic on a warm evening porch?

I'll tell you some things about the other day—if you have a minute.

Imagine this.

It began sometime close to 4 in the morning. I woke up and knew it was happening, because of the silence. Rain is noisy. No-rain is quiet. But the quietest of all is the hushed, white-muffled, feather pillow quiet of snowfall.

And this was to be no dainty dusting. By my 7 o'clock early-morning dog-out, the air was thick and swirling, and the driveway—75 feet long on a good day—looked like a landing strip.

Back in the kitchen, I kicked off low boots, poured coffee and listened to the radio man. He said the roads were a mess, and if people would just stay put for a while, highway crews could get to work.

As it turned out, Summerfriend, that would have been the last chance to make a run for it. The sky sat right down on us. It snowed until midnight, the wind drew circles in the drifts and my birdbath disappeared.

I know what you're saying; in most places a vanishing birdbath is a "so-what." But on Cape Cod they don't get buried in snow every day of the week. Housebound I sat, looking out a window. Measuring. Gauging. Going, going, gone the birdbath.

This was Serious. I pulled on higher boots and went outside again. By now, the world was done up in a set of un-colors, included among them white, tree trunk and soaked shingle. And the dog, assuming correctly that white is white is white, opted to use the deck, rather than walk all the way to the yard. In her shoes—which, of course, she wasn't wearing—I would have done the same.

I hiked out to the still-unplowed road. Amy followed—enthusiastic if short-legged—hurling herself from one of my bootprints into the next. I looked up and down the road into white mushy silence and then back toward the house, where everything I'd ever planted had gone the way of the birdbath. No azaleas. Junipers bent low, mounded over. Window boxes, capped with foot-high snow cones. And to the right of the now mile-long driveway, day-after-day-after-daylilies lay deep down and hibernating.

By now I was wrapped in wet white. My boots were only half as high as they needed to be, and I was missing a dog. She was there, partway back to the house, trying to hide on the windless side of a too-small pine tree. Black eyelashes sparkled with ice, and a fat gumdrop of snow sat on her nose.

Time to go inside, where I held a yardstick to the snowline on my slacks—30 inches.

Another world took over then. Warm and closed in—with boot puddles and wet mitten smell. And the TV. And the phone. And food. And outside was getting more and more remote. Driving snow attached itself to every side of the house—insulating—packing—covering windows. By mid-afternoon, I was sealed off in my snowhut, without sound, without sight.

Some of us maintained voice contact throughout the day, comparing conditions, complaints, levels of inactivity and junk food fantasies. "The snow in my yard is up to the third step."

"Oh, yeah, well, my birdbath is covered."

"Really?"

"Yeah."

"What are you eating? I can hear you eating!"

"Carrot sticks."

"Liar."

At one house, a friend was painting a wall cabinet and making grilled cheese sandwiches and popcorn in a no-school party atmosphere. Her kids, in some kind of snow-induced frenzy, kept going out dry and coming in wet, so the clothes dryer went full-tilt all day.

Another friend thought she'd "use up" a package of Nestle's chocolate bits, which is the sneakiest way I'd ever heard that put.

And I, having had the foresight to videotape the Cary Grant-Deborah Kerr weeper, "An Affair to Remember," sat in the living room, sniffling and trying to ignore the siren's wail of the Duncan Hines Brownie Mix in the kitchen cupboard.

Nicky (Cary) finally saw the painting and realized that Terry (Deborah) had tried to get to the Empire State Building, so that all worked out well. And as the no-sun went down, I bundled up again, grabbed the shovel, leaned into the snow and made one more effort to maintain the path I'd cleared between house and shed. This was a grave error in judgment. As I headed back inside, the chiropractor's face—like Marley's ghost—grinned at me from the door knocker.

Just before midnight, I gathered up the little creature who had spent the whole day in someone else's footprints, and—carrying her—trudged out to the cleared road. There, in the nightclub-pink glow of a sodium vapour streetlight, she performed a long-pent-up, racing, spinning dance to Freedom. The snow had stopped, and our world—one you wouldn't have recognized, Summerfriend—was smooth, heaped high, frozen-magic white—save for a black speck of spaniel. It was beyond silence, and we were the only two in it.

What we saw that night is hard to find words for. It's not easy to send winterCape to you in Arizona—or California—Ohio—Virginia—or wherever it is you all live.

And it won't be here when you get back.

You'll just have to imagine.
